

Louis Raschke Orland J. P. Dies of Heart Attack

Louis Raschke, aged 55 years, a resident of the Orland territory since 1921 died very suddenly of a heart attack in his home on 159th and Keane Avenue Saturday evening. Mr. Raschke had been quite active during the day mowing the lawn around his home. About 6:30 o'clock in the evening the family missed him and later found him dead in the basement.

It is presumed the exertion of mowing the lawn brought on the fatal heart attack.

Surviving are his wife Martha, one son Clifford, his mother Mrs. Amelia Raschke, 2 brothers Otto H. and Ferdinand and a large circle of friends.

Louis Raschke was born February 10, 1889 in Chicago. On August 14, 1909 he was united in marriage with Martha Setzke of Chicago. In 1921 he located in Orland Park. He served as manager of the Pfaezler Packing Co. of Chicago.

Upon locating in Orland he opened a lunch room and filling station at 143rd and Keane. After the completion of paving of Keane Avenue, he opened up a new filling station and lunch room and tourist cabins at the junction of 159th and Keane.

While a resident of Orland Park he was elected to the office of President of the board of Village Trustees. He also was active in township politics. He was elected to the office of Justice of the Peace which he held for the past 16 years.

He had been in poor health for the past year or two and spent the summer in Michigan. He had been preparing to leave last Sunday morning for his summer stay in the north when death cut his plans short.

Funeral services were held from the Schmaedeke Funeral home in Orland Park to the Bethania Cemetery Chapel in Chicago Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Burial was made in the Bethania cemetery in Chicago.

WILL CO., ISNU WILL HOLD DINNER

Officers of the Will County ISNU Club have arranged a dinner to be held in Joliet, May 10. This will be held in the First Lutheran church, North Ottawa St. at Benton at 6:30.

Alumni and friends of the university attending the dinner meeting will hear Dr. J. W. Carington director of the bureau of appointment and the training schools at ISNU, speak on "Post War Educational Problems". News of the campus will be given by Pres. R. W. Fairchild.

Reservations for the dinner should be made with the president of the club, Miss Elfrida Boehmert 1023 Wilcox, Joliet by Friday, May 5. Other officers of the Will County ISNU club arranging the meeting include the vice president, Alva W. Mead, Plainfield; Secretary-Treas., Miss Elizabeth Gougar, R. 2 Joliet, and the executive board members Donald Imig, Joliet and Fred Holt, Lockport.

PAIR OF WOODEN SHOES FOR MOKENA MUSEUM

A pair of wooden shoes of the Holland type, are on exhibition at the Cooper and Hostert garage in Mokena. The shoes, of unknown age, have fancy carved toes and are made of very light wood. Walter McGovney of Mokena has had these shoes in his possession for some time and gave them to Elmer Cooper who in turn will present them to the Mokena Public school. They will make a valuable exhibit in years to come.

HARVEY FRICK BACK ON MOKENA JOB

Wm. Shepherd second trick telegraph operator at the Mokena depot of the Rock Island has been inducted into service and Harvey Frick of the New Lenox depot has been assigned to the Mokena job while a lady operator has been assigned to New Lenox. Mr. Frick took over his Mokena job Tuesday. He held the same position here about 11 years ago before going to New Lenox.

PLANNING WELCOME FOR RETURNING SERVICEMEN

It was suggested by Pres. Geo. Sangmeister at the last meeting of the Frankfort Fire Department that consideration be given to a plan to raise money for a suitable celebration of welcome when the time comes for local servicemen to return after the war. Post war plans of this kind are being made in many communities, and if possible a picnic similar to the annual affairs formerly held at the Grove, will be decided upon.

Mokena Ladies Bowling League Holds Banquet

The Mokena Ladies' Bowling League held their 10th anniversary Cdon League held their bowling banquet Tuesday night at the Woodruff hotel in Joliet. A delicious chicken dinner was served at a table beautifully decorated with flowers, candles and very unique place cards, representing the different teams, the Wrens, Orioles, Owls, Hawks, Robins and Doves. Each team wore a different hat and wreath made by the committee.

Mrs. Florence Kessler was the Mistress of Ceremonies and here's a great big "Thanks" from all the girls. Mrs. Kessler, you did a splendid job. The "Hunting Act" put on by Mrs. Kessler created a commotion and started the party off with a bang. Several songs were sung during the evening with Mrs. Marguerite Scarth at the piano and inasmuch as our President, Mrs. Frances Robinson, could not be with us, she sent a message from Florida, which was read at the table.

Very clever programs were made by the Committee and at each plate there was a roll on which were written the nick names the girls acquired during the season. They all contained a Moron story, which was read by each girl. There were acts of various kinds and a number of tricks, after which a gift was presented to each member, which proved to be very amusing. Those on the Committee were: Mrs. Ann Yunker Mrs. Marguerite Scarth, Mrs. Florence Nethammer, Mrs. Herta Hamilton, Mrs. Eleanor Muehler, Mrs. Ann Burkhardt, Mrs. Evelyn Marti and Mrs. Florence Kessler, who certainly planned a wonderful night, which was enjoyed by all and are looking forward with interest to another year of bowling.

FRANKFORT VILLAGE BOARD CONSIDERS CLEAN-UP DRIVE

At the regular meeting of the Frankfort Village board Monday evening, Geo. Sangmeister, spoke on a clean up drive for the village. Since no dumping ground is available, the village cannot sponsor a clean up week but it is thought that by next fall such a piece will be provided and trucks will be hired to dispose of the rubbish collected.

Mr. Sangmeister urges that residents and property owners trim trees and shrubs, get rid of ash and brush piles and stage a cleanup drive of their own. Complaints have been received concerning unsightly vacant lots and property. Residents on the south side of the village appeared before the board and asked that prompt action be taken to remove the condemned Ryder property, on Hickory St. Seventeen dog owners have not paid the dog tax and these cases were turned over to the township collector.

OVER 600 PERSONS ATTEND HOLY LAND PICTURE SHOW

Over 600 persons saw and enjoyed a two hour program of motion pictures in technicolor on the Holy Land presented at the St. John Evangelical church in Mokena last Friday night.

Stephen Habusch, a native Galilean and his wife put on the pictures and the lecture. They exhibited a number of very beautiful curios from the Orient.

The program was inspirational, entertaining and educational.

MOKENA VILLAGE BOARD MEETS NEXT TUESDAY

Not having a quorum the Mokena Village Board could not hold its regular meeting Tuesday night, but will meet next Tuesday night at which time bids will be received for the hauling and disposal of rubbish and the date for the annual cleanup day will be set.

GENERAL MOTORS CLUB HOLDS GET TOGETHER

The General Motors Corp. of Chicago held a first series of get together meetings for members of the General Motors family at the Louis Joliet hotel Wednesday evening. Dealers in the products of the General Motors Corp. and members of the press were invited to a special dinner in the Louis Joliet.

As a part of the program of this meeting two interesting films were presented having a bearing on the industry's contributions to the war effort which the guests found highly interesting.

E. E. Kennard of Chicago served as chairman of the get together and proved a very capable Master of Ceremonies. The chief object of these meetings which have been held in 125 cities throughout Illinois, is to get the dealers, friends and civic leaders and members of the press better acquainted.

A vote to conduct future meetings in Joliet at intervals of three months was accepted.

Harold Berg, Tinley Park Is Awarded Purple Heart and Air Medal

Mr. Harold A. Berg of Tinley Park has received word from his son Sgt. Harold, Bud, Berg who is stationed somewhere in Italy, that he has been awarded the Purple Heart and the Air Medal.

Mr. Berg received this news in letters from his son who said the awards were made in the early part of April. The Purple Heart was awarded for an injury to his knee, received in action recently, and the Air Medal for an unstated number of completed missions.

Following is an excerpt from a recent letter: "Today I received the Purple Heart during a rather large ceremony they had for three other fellows and myself. There was a full colonel from the Commanding General's office of the Air Force that I am in that pinned the medals on us.

A lot of pictures were taken including movies. I have been the first one of the squadron that has been wounded.

Bud celebrated his 23rd birthday last Thursday. He is shown second from the left in the first row in the accompanying picture. He is the rear turret gunner of his ship, "Sweating it out" which, together with crew, had completed 6 missions at the time of the picture.

PAUL LUCAS OF ORLAND DIES AT AGE OF 78 YEARS

Mr. Paul Lucas, aged 78 years, a resident of Orland Township for many years, passed away early Saturday morning April 29 in his home in Orland Park. He had been in ill health for the past year.

Before moving into town, Mr. Lucas had farmed. In the late years he was employed by the Geo. Lumber Co., in Chicago.

He is survived by his wife Elizabeth, four sons Paul, Louis, Edwin and Herbert and 8 grand children. One daughter Alice preceded him in death.

Funeral services were held Tuesday, May 2 at 9:30 a.m. in St. Michael's church with the Rev. Fr. James L. Rooney officiating. Burial was made in St. Mary's cemetery, Mokena.

Ministerial Student of Mokena Carries On In England

AN EIGHTH AAF BOMBER STATION, ENGLAND—When Wilbur W. Mancke of Mokena went into the army in November, 1942, he resigned himself to give up his plans for studying for the ministry. As it turned out, he's now getting everyday experience in religious work that will help him when he continues his theological studies after the war.

The army has gained, too. Sgt. Mancke's background makes him invaluable as assistant to the Protestant chaplain at this Flying Fortress station.

"He's more than an assistant," says Capt. Thomas B. Richards of Turbotville, Pa., the chaplain, "and I don't know what I'd do without him. We handle most of our work as a team."

A theology student at Elmhurst college when he entered the service 27 year old Sgt. Mancke was superintendent of St. John's Evangelical Sunday school for seven years, was president of the North Illinois Youth Cabinet, was president of the Monee Region Youth Cabinet.

People who suppose that a chaplain's job consists entirely of conducting Sunday chapel services and occasionally visiting patients in the hospital would be surprised at the scope of his activities, according to Sgt. Mancke. He cites figures:

During one month recently, Chaplain Richards held 143 personal interviews with soldiers with problems, wrote 55 letters for men about their personal affairs, investigated a dozen applications to marry. He had five conferences about the welfare of personnel with the commanding officer of the base and ten with the Red Cross Field representative.

Six times he looked in at the enlisted men's mess hall to make sure eating conditions are what they should be. He got better acquainted with men of the base at three dances and on five visits to the Red Cross Aero club. He arranged four informal discussions during which soldiers aired their opinions on timely topics. Eight times he visited patients in the hospital, two times prisoners in the guardhouse.

He wrote letters of condolence to relatives of all the men killed or missing in action. He answered more than 80 inquiries by base personnel who wanted information on their friends now prisoners of war.

Besides all this, he conducted four Sunday morning and five Sunday evening services and one mid week devotional meeting. And after wards he sent friendly notes to the parents of each man who attended.

By taking care of many of the details, Sgt. Mancke helped the chaplain get those things done.

When a corporal's father died recently, he left a widow and three children with no means of support to save a trucking business which, with no one to run it, had to close down. The corporal wanted to know what would become of his family.

"Chaplain Richards asked the corporal's draft board to investigate the case," Sgt. Mancke said. "The board studied the matter and then recommended that the corporal be discharged from the army so he could return home as head of the family. We've applied for a discharge for the soldier."

Chaplains in this theatre of operation are not permitted to perform marriage ceremonies.

Chaplain Richards and Sgt. Mancke devote much of their time to the affairs of base combat fliers now in Nazi prisoner of war camps. They keep the men's addresses on file, maintain a regular correspondence with the fliers' families and accept contributions towards cigarettes, books and games for the prisoners.

Sgt. Mancke is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Mancke.

TRI-ANNUAL HOLDS SPRING MEETING

The Will County Community Club League, with which the Frankfort Woman's Club is affiliated, held its spring tri-annual meeting at the Willow Ave. Presbyterian church last Tuesday. Mrs. Edw. Andrew, vice president, presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. W. A. Willard. Mrs. Harry Osman of Joliet Three Way Club welcomed the group and the response was made by Mrs. John Goodwin of Richie.

Group singing was led by Mrs. Herbert Thomas of Lockport. The early history of Will County was related by Mrs. Chester Coldwater. Mrs. Mervin Moore, and Mrs. Lloyd Smith. At the fall triannual the history of Frankfort and other communities will be read. Walter Logue a representative of the Good Will Industries spoke on the achievements of that organization. Reports were made by the garden and program chairmen. After luncheon, served by women of the church, Rev. Leon Harris, pastor of Christ Episcopal church of Joliet, spoke of his work in the Hawaiian Islands and displayed articles he had brought from the islands. An interesting antique exhibit was held and special music by a ladies quartette provided entertainment.

Palos Resident 100 Years Old; Talked with Lincoln

To live one hundred years, does not fall to the lot of very many people, but such was the case with Mrs. Harriet Schofield of Palos Park, who celebrated her 100th birthday in the home of her daughter Mrs. Ada Schmidt in Palos Park, Wednesday.

Neighbors and friends called in the afternoon to congratulate Mrs. Schofield. A beautiful birthday cake, decorated with blue flowers and the inscription "Grandma, 100 Years", was the center of attraction at the delicious luncheon which was served. Mrs. Schofield cutting the first piece.

Mrs. Schofield was born May 3, 1844 in Philadelphia, Penn. Her parents came from Wales, England. Her father was a business man. Mrs. Schofield was well educated and specialized in art, she having been a painter and has painted in oil and water color, many lovely pictures.

Mr. and Mrs. Schofield came to Palos Park 42 years ago, living on 123rd St. in that village. Mr. Schofield, who was a civil war veteran entering as a drummer boy, passed away 14 years ago and was buried with full military honors.

They were married 75 years ago on Tuesday and to them were born one daughter, Mrs. Ada Schmidt the former postmistress of Palos Park and one son, Ruben Schofield, who is now assistant post master at Minong, Wis. Also she has three grand children and three great grand children.

Mrs. Schofield remembers meeting Abraham Lincoln twice. Once when she was 18 years old, her father took her to see Lincoln at Trenton, N. J. when she had the opportunity to have a nice visit with him and another time in later years at Springfield, Ill. Mrs. Schofield says Lincoln was tall and lanky but with a very kind expression and manner.

A wonderful record is accorded to Mrs. Schofield, in that in the 100 years of her life, she has never been ill, had no disease and needed no doctor, and does not suffer even rheumatic pains. And while she is not ill, yet for the past few years she has kept to her bed a little because of feeling somewhat weak. She enjoyed the friends who called and also the many gifts of flowers and cards sent to her.

Palos Park Reader Objects To Fox Hunts as Cruel Sport

Palos Hills, April 30, 1944. Mr. Wm. Semmler, Publisher, Orland Park Herald.

Dear Sir: As a 5-year reader and lately a subscriber to one of your weekly papers, I think I have the right to criticize some of your policies. Even before the enclosed pictures were printed in a Chicago paper and also in "Life" magazine, I became nauseated at the idea of the unsportsmanship of 150 or 200 men against one fox.

This is the first year that I noticed mentioned week after week, of the so-called fox hunts in your paper. The explanation of this is probably, the scarcity of shells and ammunition with which the 'brave' hunters used to slaughter and rid the land of the very few vestiges of wild game that once abounded in this once Indian's paradise.

May I ask you, where are the prairie chickens, the deer, the wolf, the coyote, the partridge, buffalo, passenger pigeon and the countless other species which are extinct or nearly so? Did the villainous fox destroy all these or did man, the most vicious killer that God has created, despoil our land of these birds and animals? Homo Sapiens Americanus who is wasting his heritage of natural resources without a thought to the future.

The vanishing forests of the north, the vanishing oil pools of the south and west. Let us leave some wild life for our children and grandchildren so that they will not have to look at pictures in the encyclopedia to read as I did, passenger pigeon extinct, last one died in New York Ornithological gardens 1908.

What is the case against the fox? He kills chickens? Then I say, the farmer is too lazy to take care of his chickens. If he spent the time he took to help kill the poor animal to death, he could help himself and his fowl more by repairing his fences and hen houses.

Next: The fox destroys quail, rabbit and other wild game. Well so (Continued on back page)

MOKENA WSCS MEETING

The WSCS of the Mokena Methodist church will meet next Thursday afternoon May 11 with Mrs. R. J. McKelvey in the parsonage in Tinley Park. Those planning to attend are asked to meet at Cooper and Hostert's garage at 1:45.

Washington, D. C.

More U. S. Troops for India?

Certain senators, even including some of the President's supporters, are irked over curtailment of the Australian army, simultaneous with British requests that we send more U. S. troops to India.

The British request was made by Field Marshal Sir John Dill, former British Chief of Staff, now liaison officer in Washington. Sir John, personally one of the most charming and popular members of the British embassy, suggested to U. S. war chiefs that, in view of the Jap invasion of India, the United States might send more troops to that area.

The reply he got was: "What about the tremendous army you already have in India?"

Sir John had to admit that this huge British army is spread out through India largely for the purpose of preventing internal revolt.

Senators who have learned about this conversation are all set to do some blasting, should the White House send more U. S. troops to save the British Empire in India. However, they probably won't have to blast, because the President himself is understood to feel strongly on that subject.

KAISER'S NEW PLANE

Very little has been heard of the giant wooden transport plane which Henry Kaiser proposed building more than a year ago. However, the plane is nearing completion—though with no thanks to the navy.

Behind the scenes, the navy has done all it could to block the plane and at one time proposed cancelling the contract. Some insiders attribute this to pressure from the Martin bomber plant, which has already constructed a giant flying boat, Mars, for the navy.

However, the new Kaiser wooden transport plane will be so big that the Mars could almost be carried inside. Its fuselage alone will be big enough to hold a freight car. Its wing spread is 100 yards and it can carry a payload of 60 tons, in addition to gasoline.

At one time, the navy got so insistent that the contract for the plane be cancelled that famous record-holder Howard Hughes, now a partner of Kaiser's, had to plead with the RFC to let him continue. The big flying boat is being financed by RFC funds, and Hughes actually promised to put up a $500,000 performance bond in case of non-fulfillment of contract, plus a guarantee to pay all costs personally beyond a certain date.

The big plane should be finished early in the summer.

Chalk up a score for Congressman Lyndon Johnson of Texas and Economic Czar Fred Vinson in helping the farmer on the price of eggs; also in cutting the profits of dried-egg manufacturers to the tune of several million dollars a week.

It happened through a queer quirk in price ceilings. The price on dried eggs had been fixed by the OPA at 25 cents a pound, but meanwhile the price at which farmers were selling their eggs to the dried-egg processors dropped from around 40 cents a dozen to 20 cents a dozen. Despite this drop in price, the dried-egg processors continued to get the benefit of the high ceiling price, while buying eggs from the farmers at one-half what they did before.

The spread between what the farmers got paid and what the egg processors sold for was so great that the processors were making money at the stupendous rate of $6,000,000 a week—until Texas' Lyndon Johnson stepped in with protests to Judge Vinson. The latter has now upped the price which the farmer gets for his eggs.

RUSSIAN WEARINESS

U. S. officials just back from Russia report a war weariness among the Russian people. This is not to be confused with military strength or weakness. Obviously, the military machine is operating with an efficiency such as never before.

For 25 years, Russia has been torn by war, revolution, or internal strain. Even during days of peace, the severe economic effort deprived the ordinary citizen of many elementary comforts of life.

But now, they see victory around the corner and want it to come quickly. Beyond that, they see security coming from cooperation with the other big powers of the world, giving them the time necessary to build up a state in which, according to the precepts of the Soviet philosophy, the dignity of the individual can be recognized and enjoyed.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

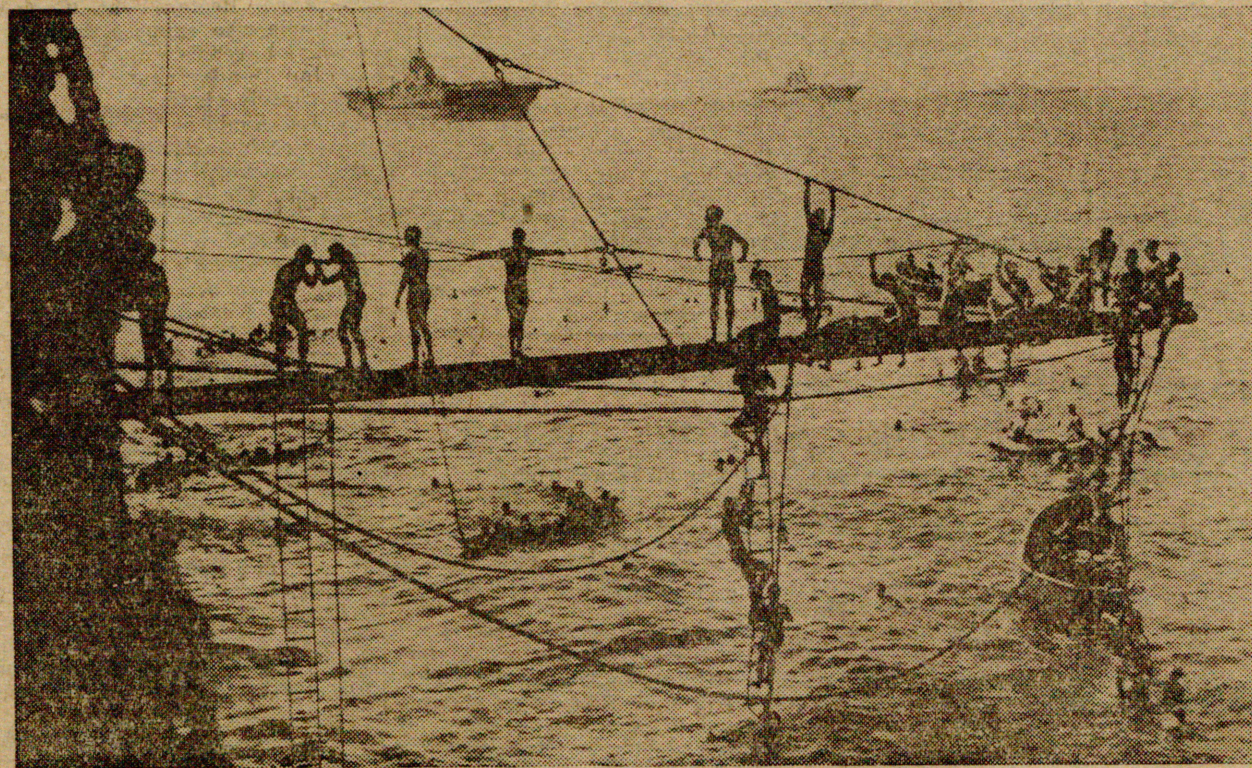

Judge Sam Rosenman now occupies the suite of offices vacated by the late Marvin McIntyre, White House secretary. Rosenman formerly had only a tiny cubicle under the eaves. . . . White House intimates suggest that the President probably doesn't intend to fill Mac's place. Instead of three secretaries Steve Early, "Pa" Watson and McIntyre) he will have only two, plus Sam Rosenman as counsel. . . . If FDR intended to run again, he might be more anxious to fill the vacant post.

Backstage Scenes With 'Prisoners of War'

(1) German prisoners of war have their own band at Fort Dix, N. J. Here they play overture to play staged by other "P of Ws." (2) A scene from the play "Froh und Heiter" (Bright and Gay). Scenery and costumes are the work of the prisoners made from waste material during their spare time. (3) A scene in the kitchen of the prisoners' mess hall showing them preparing the evening meal for their fellow Nazis. These men appear anything but unhappy.

Navy Crewmen Find Antidote for Battle Strain

Once the business of conquering Roi island was completed, these crewmen of a United States navy aircraft carrier take the antidote for post-battle nervous strain by an invigorating swim in the warm waters of a lagoon in the Marshalls. After the heat of battle a dip is a soothing tonic for the nerves, the men declare.

French and English Generals in Italy

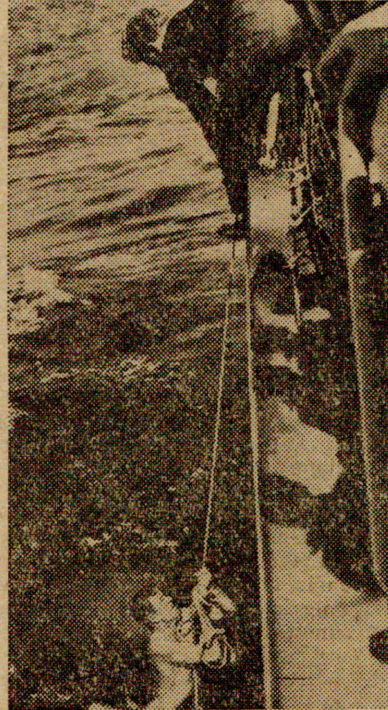

General Juin, commander of the French Expeditionary corps in Italy; General Leese, commander of the Eighth army; and Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, commander in chief of the Allied forces in Italy, are shown engaged in conversation when General Alexander paid a visit to the Eighth's headquarters.

Principal in Sedition Trial

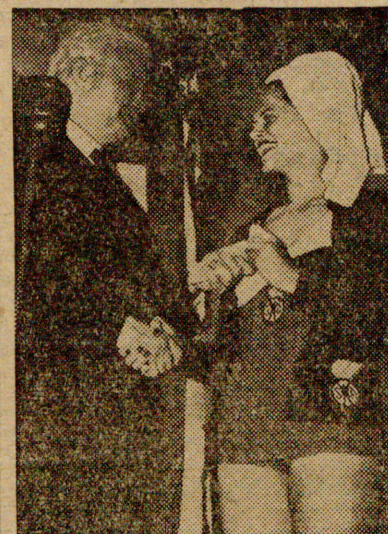

A principal in the biggest sedition trial of this war, Mrs. Elizabeth Dilling of Chicago, appears quite unconcerned before the camera. She is shown here with her daughter, Elizabeth Joan, and her ex-husband, Albert Dilling, who acted as her counsel at District court trial in Washington. Mrs. Dilling, along with 29 others, is accused of conspiracy.

He Missed the Boat

Coastguardsmen heave a line from their destroyer and haul in a mid-Atlantic swimmer who missed his boat—badly! Repatriated seaman Earl N. Phillips tumbled from one ship in a west-bound convoy and was picked up half an hour later by the coast guard.

Betty Gets Medal

Swimmer Betty Shields of New York is presented a medal by Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio. The award was made at Oakland, Calif., where Betty placed second in the 100-yard backstroke event.

PAUL CROSSES INTO EUROPE

LESSON TEXT: Acts 16:13-15; Philippians 3:7-14.

GOLDEN TEXT: I press on toward the goal unto the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus.—Philippians 3:14.

Pressing "toward the mark" (Phil. 3:14) well describes the zeal and intense devotion with which Paul lived his life for Christ. He was wholehearted in giving himself to the preaching of the gospel. Our lesson tells of his carrying of the gospel into Europe by the guidance and blessing of the Holy Spirit.

It seems appropriate to consider the two Scripture portions in reverse order, looking first at Paul's declaration in Philippians of his passion to know Christ, and then in Acts of his purpose to make Him known. The man with vision is eager to serve. "A task without a vision makes a man a drudge; a vision without a task makes him a visionary; a task and a vision makes him a missionary."

I. Paul's Passion to Know Christ (Phil. 3:7-14).

There were many things in Paul's life of which he was proud, until he met Christ, and then everything else lost its importance and interest.

All things in life are relative in value and our attachment to them is determined by our heart attitude.

Now being spiritually minded and having found in Christ real satisfaction for his soul, the Christian counts as refuse the things in which the world takes such pride and satisfaction.

To "know Him" calls for a depth of experience, sacrifice and of joy which is not easy to describe in words. It begins with a divine righteousness imparted by faith. Self-righteousness will not suffice. This is not a matter of law, but of grace.

It is a resurrection faith and therefore powerful. It is a faith which accepts suffering for Christ as a part of fellowship with Him—not only bearable but glorious because it is in the power of His resurrection.

That fellowship is one day to be complete and eternal, for there is to be for Paul the assured experience of a personal resurrection out from among the dead (v. 11). The faith of a Christian looks beyond the grave.

All this has to do with the present, as well as the blessed future. The man who has this kind of spiritual experience shares the purpose of Paul expressed in verses 12-14. Here there is no resting back in self-satisfied comfort, no pride in one's past victories, no sense of having "arrived."

Paul saw not only the necessity but the blessedness of going from victory to victory. Too many Christians of today are entirely satisfied with what they have attained (and it is usually all too little).

There is a prize to be gained, the prize of our "high calling in Christ Jesus." Let us, like Paul, be filled with holy dissatisfaction with ourselves until we reach that blessed goal.

The man who had such a vision was ready for God's call to carry the gospel into Europe.

II. Paul's Purpose to Make Christ Known (Acts 16:13-15).

The story of the conversion of Lydia has many elements of special interest. It presents the turning point in the progress of the gospel, which by the grace and leading of God brought it northward to Europe rather than southward into Africa. Many of us have heard because of the way Paul was led, and one wonders if Europe and America might not otherwise have been the "dark continents" rather than Africa. We are what we are by the grace of God.

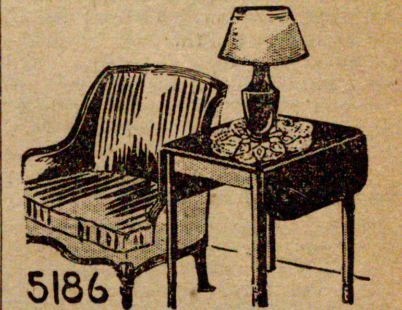

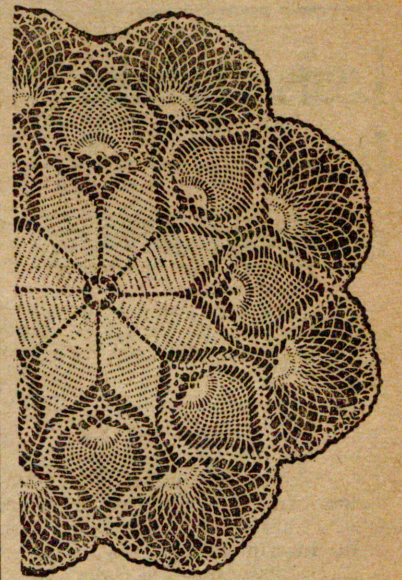

Then we note that the first convert was a woman. She was not the last woman to give an attentive ear and a believing heart to the gospel message. The church through all its history has been blessed by the readiness of women to bear and heed the gospel.

We like to note that she set a pattern of hospitality and service which her sisters in the church have maintained (see v. 15). She "constrained" the visiting preachers to enjoy the comforts of her fine home, and thus put forward the work of Christ (see III John 5-8).

It is encouraging to note how perfectly the leading of the Holy Spirit worked out in the experience of Paul and his brethren. The Lord sent His prepared messenger to the place where there was a prepared heart waiting to receive the Word with gladness.

We may confidently go on the errands of our God, knowing that when He leads, He goes before and prepares the way. That does not mean that there will be no trials and difficulties. Paul had plenty of them (see II Cor. 11:23-33). But it does mean that we may go with the assurance of blessed results, in His name, and with the grace to bear whatever comes along the way—for His glory.

Things to do

ONE of the easiest of the famous "pineapple" designs to crochet—it takes only 3 balls of cotton thread—measures 16 inches across and is a charming combination of pineapple motifs, palm leaves grouped around a center diamond design.

To obtain complete crocheting instructions for the Pineapple Dolly (Pattern No. 5186) send 16 cents in coin, your name, address and the pattern number.

Bees Used in World War I
By Huns to Defeat British

Several hundred swarms of bees spelled victory over a convoy of British soldiers during World War I.

The bees were strategically located by the Germans along an overland route to be followed by the British. As the British approached, the bees were aroused by the electric shock of a dry-cell battery. The angry droves swarmed furiously upon the surprised caravan, and soldiers as well as mules and horses suffered an agonizing death.

THE STORY THUS FAR: Lieut. Col. Frank Kurtz, pilot of a Flying Fortress, tells of that fatal day when the Japs struck in the Philippines. Eight of his men were killed fleeing for shelter and Old 99, with many other Fortresses, was demolished before it could get off the ground. After escaping to Australia, what is left of the squadron flies to Java where they go out on many missions over the Philippines. Six Fortresses go on a mission over Macassar Strait where there is a huge concentration of Jap ships. They make their bomb runs and on the return trip Major Robinson's plane goes into a dive and crashes into the sea. U. S. planes circle over the dead Queen.

CHAPTER XIII

"I now watched this last four fall through what was practically a striped fog made by Jap pom-poms coming up at us. We could see the Japs crowding the rails, trying to jump overboard as the bombs gathered speed. The first bomb plunked into the water alongside, but the other three went smack! smack! smack! right down what had been her promenade deck, and it looked like she was coughing up into the sky a kind of confetti made up of planking splinters and Jap infantry. My right wing man, who was releasing his bombs synchronized with me, scored four hits across the back of this ship.

"You ought to hear Beardshear, our tail gunner, tell about it. Not having any Zeros to keep him busy, he was enjoying the scenery and playing 'Yankee Doodle' on the deck planking with his .50-calibers. He says we passed over so close that he looked down the funnels, and he called to us over the interphones that he could see what they were going to have for chow—rice and fish heads. Then we made our turn, and went on back to Batavia, which was crowded with refugees from Singapore.

"About this time," said Frank Kurtz, "I got word from the Colonel that at last some American P-40 fighters were on their way up from Australia, equipped with belly tanks so they could take it in hops, landing for fuel at Kupang airdrome on Timor Island. It was part of my liaison job to get them settled with the Dutch fighters at their airdrome at Gnorro. It was another beautifully hidden field. The Dutch had to lead them to it with an escort plane.

"When they landed I found there were nine, led by my old friend Major Bud Sprague, whom I hadn't seen since the Philippines. I asked him where Buzz Wagner was, and he said Buzz just hadn't been lucky. They'd told them in Australia that one of them had to stay behind and give the newly arriving fighter pilots a little extra training, while the other would lead the squadron in Java. Buzz and Bud had tossed an Australian shilling to decide it, and Buzz had lost; he was stuck with that training job.

"The Dutch fighter pilots, who are just as prancy as ours, were all excited and doing their stuff. They'd led Bud in formation, and now they were putting on a show for him. They'd dive onto the field in an attack string, and just before they hit, they turned almost straight up in the air and then, a few thousand feet up, that string opened out in all directions like the petals of a rose.

"Bud had to admit the Dutch were good. But he said he had to take one of his planes up for a test that afternoon and show 'em how to fly. 'Bud hit it off with them right away. He praised the camouflage on their field. When he came back next day, I heard him take his own youngsters in hand. Of course it was the old hokey, but he gave them one serious warning.

"This is the best-camouflaged field we'll ever operate on," he told them, 'so remember—I don't want anyone to cross this field with a Zero on his tail. Bail out, beach it, but don't come back here with company.' As a result, the Japanese didn't find Gnorro Field until two days before the end.

"Not long after they came, I rang Bud up with a queer assignment for the boys. We were doing everything possible to stop the Japs from swarming over onto Sumatra from Malaya. The Forts were out pasting their landing barges morning and night. We were using them practically as heavy pursuit—skimming down under the weather to chase landing barges going up the rivers.

"So we asked Bud to deliver a little strafing, and off they went, carrying belly tanks to get them there and stopping off at Andir. They went to work with 30-pound fragmentation bombs and their machine guns, and when they got back Bud reported the P-40's had had Japs diving off those barges in full field equipment. He sank quite a few and drowned hundreds of Japs, and every P-40 got back to Java.

"But they were closing in on us from still another direction. We could no longer operate from those advance fields at Kendari and Samarinda across the Java Sea. The Japs had moved into Borneo and the Celebes. So we waited for what we knew was coming. They must be stacking Jap bombers onto what had been our own fields there—within easy range of Java.

"We didn't have to wait long. One morning I was at the KNILM Airfield at Surabaya, checking on a transport plane which was supposed to be bringing in ground crews for Bud Sprague's fighters, when at Operations they reported in great excitement that a Jap bomber force was over Java itself, headed down the island.

(Abbreviation for "Koninklijke Nederlandsch-Indische Luchtvaart Maatschappij," meaning Royal Dutch Indies Airplane Company.)

"I was panic-stricken for fear they might branch off at Malang and catch our Forts on the ground there. Luckily the pass was bottled up with fog, so they came on down toward us at Surabaya.

"At almost exactly eleven o'clock we could hear them hitting the city off in the distance. We knew they wouldn't miss us. I'll never forget poor old Baalerts, the head of that KNILM Field. He'd never been bombed before, and asked me what to do. He had already crawled into his car. I told him that was the worst thing he could do, that we should run for the concrete slit trenches at the edge of the field.

"As we ran, we could hear the second wave coming in over the harbor next to our airdrome—hear the hollow echo as the bombs crashed into the oil storage base. They practically leveled Moro Kambangem, the Dutch naval base there, coming in out of the sun—it was really a beautiful job from the professional standpoint. It's second in size only to Singapore. The docks were left a shambles. Our American Navy's PBV's of Patrol Wing 10 were anchored there. One or two were burned on the ways, but the rest managed to take off, although the

He had been anxious that his wife know that he was all right. He died at three in the morning.

Japs strafed a dingy full of sailors rowing out to them. They also scored a direct hit on the barracks there, so for the second time those poor guys of Patrol Wing 10 lost all they had—the first had been at Cavite in the Philippines.

"Now came the third wave, headed right for our airdrome. Echoing around in the cement of our slit trenches, the sound of the crashes was terrific. Poor old Baalerts was down there lying on the concrete floor, his white bridal suit soaking up half an inch of dirty rain water. We were all thankful when we heard that bomb pattern moving away. They'd laid a nice strip across the field, but only one bomb happened to hit the macadam strip.

"I was just hoisting out of the trench what was left of our bridegroom—there had been a lot of noise and I'm afraid his condition was pretty grave—when the Zeros hit, so we got Baalerts back down again.

"All the Dutch had to meet them were twelve export-model Curtiss pursuits. They had little motors and were hardly better than advanced trainers. The Dutch had come to America in 1939 with nice shiny new-named gold in their hands, begging to buy fighters. But this was all we could spare them, and it was the entire Dutch fighter force, except for another dozen which finally got back from Samarinda. Well, this brave dozen was up to do what it could against about ten Zeros.

"We watched one Dutchman coming in for fuel when two Zeros crossed his tail, their guns going full-blast, hammering tracers into his tail—watched his plane roll over and dive into the red dust at the edge of the field.

"Now another Dutch pilot comes in, with a Zero streaking for his tail, the Dutchman dodging all the way to the ground. Fifty feet from the ground he slips to the right to avoid that stream of tracers, but it's too late. Flames come gushing out, yet he manages to land and jump out of the burning plane. It's a terrific fight overhead; we can hear the faraway rattles as they clear their guns—the brave Dutch kids are fighting for their homeland, and seven planes were lost that morning of the twelve which had been Java's only defending Dutch fighter force.

"As I climbed out I realized the picture was darkening fast. We were depending on our Fortresses to keep the Jap transports away from Java, but we had to have fighters to defend our flying fields.

"But it wasn't until later in the day that I found out the Zeros had got Major Straubel, one of our own squadron commanders. He'd been piloting a B-18 we used for transportation, and was coming from Malang to Surabaya to talk with General Brett. The Zeros hit, and from the ground they saw him go over the hill on fire.

"They brought him into Surabaya hospital, and of course I went right out. It was in confusion because of the raid, but tiptoeing down those dim corridors, I finally found Straubel's room. He was burned black, and there was no hope, but they'd given him morphine to put him to sleep, and he was groaning in his sleep. But until then, when he'd been conscious, he hadn't let out a groan—had just been anxious that the nurse let his wife know he was all right. He died at three in the morning.

"While the liaison work lasted I was quartered at the big hotel in Surabaya, and the whole thing didn't feel right. You weren't sure of these natives as you had been of the Filipinos. That night a few were shot who were caught flashing lights into the air. And at the hotel the barefooted waiters, who slipped silently between tables and in and out of the high-ceilinged rooms, began to disappear.

"My own boy turned up a couple of days later, however—with tears in his eyes. Said he was back and to stay. He wasn't sure what this war was about, but he'd taken his mother and sister to the country, and was back for the rest of the war.

"Jap Intelligence must have been very good, because one bomber had peeled off the formation and made a direct run on the newly completed Dutch Army-Navy building (they had just moved in), scoring a near-miss.

"Meanwhile there was something else to straighten out. The Dutch fighters alone had been defending Surabaya—where had our P-40's been? Well, it turned out that in that Dutch fighter-control room they hadn't been able to speak English clearly enough for our boys to understand over the radio, so they'd been off in another corner of the sky. Getting someone in there who could talk with an American accent was another job for me.

"The Forts of course had been pounding away at the Japs, and had come back with ominous news—they'd spotted a Jap carrier out in the Java Sea and sent it away limping. If they'd had more strength and could have laid down a denser bomb pattern, they'd have sunk the damned thing. The Navy's PBV flying boats of Patrol Wing 10 were doing a wonderful reconnaissance job finding targets for us—every morning or so you might wake up to find a Jap carrier at almost any corner of the island. The PBV's would sight a little task force in the evening, but by the time I got word to our Forts to be out there next morning, often it had slipped away.

"Most important of all, ten more fighters presently arrived—hopping up from Australia via our stepping-stones of Timor and Bali. They were led in by Captain Will Connolly, a commercial pilot, who flew a Beechcraft and did the navigating for the fighters—that isn't part of their training. He reported they'd only lost one, which cracked up in landing at Timor Field.

"But they'd had plenty of excitement. Just as they were approaching Timor the boys had engaged and shot down a Jap fighter. It made Connolly plenty jittery. He was an old hand at flying, but his little Beechcraft had no guns, and wouldn't have lasted a minute in combat. So he hurried on out of there to land at Bali for lunch. But en route he sighted what was either a twin-tailed Messerschmitt 110 or a twin-engined Mitsubishi bomber, on patrol, which altered course and was coming toward them.

"Will Connolly had no radio in his Beechcraft to warn the ten P-40's in the formation he was leading, so he started going up and down frantically to signal them. Sure enough, the kids got the idea, and the two fighters on his wing peeled off and headed for the Jap. The first one put out his port engine, but the Jap feathered it and kept on going. But then he was hit by the second P-40, which, in spite of the fact that only two of its six guns were working, knocked out the starboard motor. And just to make sure of him, a third P-40, which by now had arrived, dove in to chew his wing off.

"You should have heard those American kids when they got in. Most of them were just out of flying school, and had never before flown a P-40 except for the three-hour practice Buzz Wagner had been able to give them as they passed through Brisbane. But now they had drawn first blood, and they were excited and yipping like a bunch of fox terrier pups chasing their first rabbit.

Federal Researchers Aid Food Production

Dept. of Agriculture
Lists Discoveries

Aids to the increased production, utilization and conservation of food figure prominently among recent accomplishments of the U. S. department of agriculture's scientific research workers. Such developments are vital to a nation at war, it is pointed out, with food needs increasing and expected to continue to rise. Food production developments reported for 1943:

1. Found that sweet potato meal, made from dehydrated sweet potatoes, compares favorably with corn as a feed for steers.
2. Determined that growth of sagebrush encourages the growing of better species of pasture plants, thus increasing gains of beef cattle. In some cases production of beef per acre was more than doubled.
3. Showed that when hogs are fattened to weights beyond 275 pounds, the rate of gain decreases materially while the feed required per pound of gain increases.
4. Found that hogs can utilize small amounts of hay, about 5 to 10 per cent, in their rations with benefit. Legume hays proved most satisfactory.
5. Determined that when laying hens were fed grain sorghums (yellow milo and hegari) in a well-balanced diet, the sorghums were equal in value to corn.
6. Established methods for rearing calves satisfactorily with less milk than customary, thus releasing additional milk for human use.
7. Showed that when cows receive all the legume hay and silage they want, they will produce well and economically on a single-grain ration.
8. Demonstrated the efficacy of substitutes for scarce insecticides in controlling the potato leafhopper, pea weevil, tomato fruitworm, Mexican bean beetle, Colorado potato beetle, and plant bugs that feed on seed pods of sugar beets.
9. Made available 35 new varieties of important crop plants developed by plant breeders.

Ground Hogs' Hoofs Make Protein Feed Supplement

Swine hoofs, a waste product of packing plants, can make a good protein supplement for animal feeding when finely ground and mixed with other protein feeds. Gordon Newell and C. A. Elvehjem, research men at the U. of W., found.

It will probably not be practical to use hoof powder as the only protein supplement, since apparently it must be used in large amounts—as about 30 per cent of the ration—to get good results in chick rations.

Indications are that hoof powder "teams" very well with soybean oil-meal, the most popular and economical of present-day supplements. Neither is a complete protein, each being low in certain amino acids, but one helps supply what the other lacks.

Hoof material is low in histidine, methionine and tryptophane, since additional amounts of these amino acids improved it so as to give good results when fed as 18 per cent of the ration.

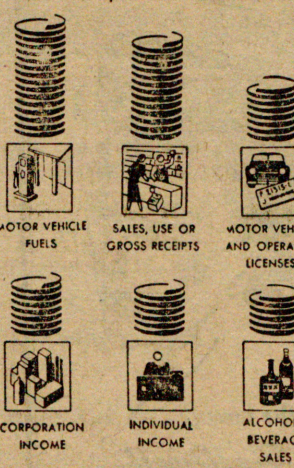

Powdered hoof obtained thus far has proved to be a variable product, some samples being quite unsatisfactory. Evidently methods of processing it need to be standardized.

Thus far packing houses have not seen their way clear to prepare powdered hoof for the feed market. They are interested, but the shortage of labor and equipment is a formidable obstacle in launching new sidelines at present.

'Aerosol Bomb' Sprays New Insecticide

A new type of "bomb" is expected to revolutionize the spreading of insecticides. This discovery, called an aerosol bomb, is a small cylinder that spreads insecticides under high pressure. The "aerosol" is made by dissolving pyrethrum extract and sesame oil in a liquefied refrigerant known commercially as Freon. Methyl chloride and other materials can be substituted for Freon, which is scarce.

"Yes," responded the judge, "and I found them guilty."

Making Sure

"I want to ask you something in confidence," began Jones, as Smith and he lingered at the bar. "Right! What is it?"
"Well, Robinson wants to borrow $5 from me. Is he good for that amount?"
"Yes, with proper securities."
"What do you suggest?" asked Jones.

"A strong chain and padlock, a pair of handcuffs and a watchdog."

Tinley Park News

Mrs. Frank Becker celebrated her birthday belatedly Monday, with 12 of her friends. She received many lovely gifts and a bounteous dinner was served.

NEW LENOX

Dolores Anderson

Hi Loyal Americans:

Well I am now a long ways from where I was when I last wrote you. I received your nice box of candy, just before Xmas and it sure hit the spot after eating this hard candy which we get occasionally in our own rations. At the time I received it, I was conveying and going from daylight till dark and didn't hardly have time to write to the folks, so please accept my apology for not writing much sooner. Things here are pretty rough at times, but then you know, this is war. Italy is a very nice country, or rather, I mean it was. I can clearly see what your people buying war bonds does. I have seen the results and consequences of our raiders which have laid their eggs over here. I see these Italian people are an ambitious type and its a good thing they are because God only knows they will have plenty to do for a good while after this is over.

I got a letter the other day from my brother and he told me what a wonderful time he had at a dance which you were giving and he attended while on his furlough. I wish I could attend one of those myself. I suppose you are all wading around in the snow back there as I am writing this letter. Well New Year's Day I saw the people here picking oranges and tangerines. You see it never snows or freezes in the sector, but it has rained nearly every day for the last few months I have been here. I think maybe we may be seeing some more of the world in the future. Well I suppose you are getting tired of reading this stuff, so I reckon I will be closing for this time.

By the way who if I may ask, is the president of your wonderful organization I could write a much better letter if I knew. Well I am forced to close now as I have to go back to work. Duty calls. . . .

Cpl. George Novak
New Lenox United Service Club.

Your box of candy was received in good condition. Being received Jan. 10 and not on Christmas day or before, it was very good and all the boys that help me eat it, said that they never tasted anything so good.

Joe said, "it reminds me of home the time I use to make candy, but always burned." As for myself, packages like that eases my duties, gives one the feeling that not only the fighting man is doing his part, but everybody back home is behind him. I want at this time to thank each and everyone of you who make it possible for the boys in service to receive this candy. In closing I will say keep up the good work. Thanks again.

A Victorious New Year,
From a boy in uniform,
Bud Kruspe

NOTING our planting calendar we see that the time is approaching for the planting of the pea crop. But before setting the seeds into the earth, here's a little reminder that they all should be checked and treated first to prevent diseases.

One of the commonest maladies of the pea seed that can be controlled by treatment is damping-off. In combating it, the two dusting powders, Spergon and Semesan, should be used in the following manner. Place a pound of seeds in a heavy paper sack or in a container that can be tightly closed. Then put in one-half teaspoon of Spergon or Semesan, roughly, one-half teaspoon of one of the dusting powders to one pound of seed. Close the container and shake it well, to insure complete coverage of the seeds.

Blight is another disease which causes considerable damage to pea seeds year after year. Unfortunately the seed treatment with one of the two dusting powders cannot be used in fighting it. The one and only way to control the pea blight is to obtain only western grown seed.

While mentioning seed protection we also might offer a word concerning lettuce seeds. The treatment for lettuce is to control damping-off in the same manner as for the peas, by using one-half teaspoon of Spergon or another type of dusting powder, Cupricide, for every pound of lettuce seed used.

Until next time, lots of good luck, everybody.

I USE SINCLAIR TRACTOR FUEL

FOR FULL POWER—EASY HANDLING

One of America's main battle lines is on the farm. Your tractor is probably working long hours. So you want full power and easy handling. To get it, let us recommend a Sinclair fuel specially refined to fit your needs.

By using the correct Sinclair tractor fuel, you'll need less fuel. You'll use less motor oil and have fewer repairs. Phone us today for full details.

OIL IS AMMUNITION — USE IT WISELY

shows you how to get the most out of your present lighting

Wash lamp bowls and clean bulbs with damp cloth frequently, to get from 25% to 30% more light from your lamps. Never place bulbs in water.

Lighten your shades. Dark shade linings are light robbers. A coat of white paint will turn parchment or metal lampshades into better reflectors; sometimes a damp cloth will clean such shades. Reline fabric shades with white or light material.

Avoid direct glare from lamp bulbs or bowls by using shades that are deep enough.

Make lamps do double duty. Two people can have plenty of good reading light from a single lamp, if the lamp is placed between them. Group your chairs around your lamps.

Six suggestions for better light ... better sight

Use correct bulbs. Be sure to replace those burned out with correct size. Smaller or larger bulbs might not be as efficient. Check your needs at our Lamp Exchange counters.

There'll be a wide selection of lamps for your post-war home

Most lamp manufacturers nowadays are busy with war work. That's why there are few lamp styles to choose for your home.

With victory, these manufacturers will return to their peacetime pursuits, and there will be lamps galore. Once again, dealers' showrooms will be gay with lamps designed to suit every taste, meet every need, enhance any setting.

We look forward to this day of better light, better sight with the same pleasant anticipation as do our customers. Meanwhile, we urge you to follow these suggestions for making the most of the lighting you have... wartime ways to take fullest advantage of the electricity you need.

Electricity has gone to war—don't waste it!

Letters From Our Boys
Dear Folks:
Hi. Folks! How's everybody in Mokena? I received your birthday gift the other day and I must say it was well and appreciated by the fellows in my tent as well as myself. It was delicious. Have been getting my mail plenty fast since my Tarawa venture, thank goodness. There's nothing I like better than mail from home. That goes for every guy overseas. Friends please note the change in my address. I have been transferred to another battalion now. We received our Citation for action on Tarawa this morning. It rained the whole time we were out there.

Well folks, thank you again for the candy and God Bless you all. As ever, Cpl. Manning Hutson, Care Fleet Post Office, San Francisco, Cal. (Incomplete address.)

Pvt. Kenneth Benson spent a 10-day delay enroute furlough with his mother, sister and brother. He arrived home April 14 and surprised everyone, making a happy reunion. His uncle Jack Wolf just happened to spend a three day leave also with his family. Kenneth had not seen his uncle for 12 years. When Kenneth left, he went to help fight the flood waters, and April 24, he left for the west coast.

The Mothers and Daughters party which was held in St. John's church in Mokena last Tuesday afternoon was a delightful affair and was attended by a large number of mother and daughters.

Mrs. Rose Moriarty and Mrs. Lloyd Warning leave today to spend several days with the former's daughter, Mrs. Grace Wessel at St. Louis and help the latter to celebrate her birthday Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Anton Benson received a letter from their son Pvt. Gordon Benson, Tuesday. That is the first time they have heard from him in over a month. Gordon states he is on an island in the southwest Pacific and wants his polo shirts sent to him as it is very hot.

Mrs. Wm. Semmler and Mrs. Hugh Deadmore entertained at a surprise birthday party in the former's home last Saturday evening honoring their brother, Mr. Theo. Oestreich of Joliet and his 70th birthday.

day. A clothes line was laid through several room with humorous gifts and notes attached to it, which the honored guest had to remove and which was the cause of much merriment. Other games and pinocle was played followed with refreshments.

Guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Oestreich, Mr. and Robt. Oestreich and daughters, Patsy and Susan Ann, Mr. and Mrs. Edw. Gribble, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Deadmore, Mr. and Mrs. J. Johnson, and Miss Grace Mainwood all of Joliet. Also Mr. and Mrs. Bert Spiess and the Semmler family of Mokena.

Rev. Wm. J. Riemann attended the Conference of the Illinois Synod of the Evangelical and Reformed Church last Wednesday and Thursday held in the historic St. Paul's Church in Chicago. Favorable action was taken on the merger of this church denomination with the Congregational Church.

The condition of Aunt Lizzie Moriarty who is confined to Silver Cross hospital with a broken hip, is favorable.

MOKENA SCHOOL NEWS

Primary Room:

This room has a new pupil in 3rd grade. We wish to welcome Doris Cummons who came from the Esmond school.

We are happy to see Beatrice Benson back in school. Beatrice was ill at home for almost 3 weeks.

Pat Reid, Wesley Nelson and Billy Bradley are ill in their homes. We hope they will have a speedy recovery and will soon be back in school with us.

Intermediate Room:
We are all happy to welcome Joyce Cummons into grade 5 in our room and hope she will enjoy her school life here in Mokena.

David Krapp brought a fine garden which he had made in an oblong pan, to school. The garden was made of moss, green sprays, flowers, colored stones, small figures, a bridge, bird bath and bird house etc. This work shows interest and talent.

During opening exercises the story of Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs has been read to the pupils, because of the return of the picture to this vicinity. Anita Geuther brought several records to school of the songs sung and these were played at the opportune time. The pupils enjoyed this specially.

Brownie News
During Brownie meeting baskets were made for May Day. Then the girls were divided into groups of twos. Monday afternoon they went to homes of various "Shut-ins" in Mokena, where they left their baskets of flowers and also left a bit of cheer.

Junior High School News

The Junior High school English classes are giving back reports made from the books which they read from the reading circle list.

The seventh grade have made some very fine maps showing the different kinds of land in Africa.

The girls physical education class is having a contest in Volley ball.

At the beginning of the year they were divided into two teams, the red one and the blue. They will play a series of 3 games. The winners will be entertained by the losers at a weiner roast.

High School News

The Sophomore class is making attractive project books on Silas Marner. "This story was just completed in Literature."

The Freshmen have made some interesting projects in Geography.

Special

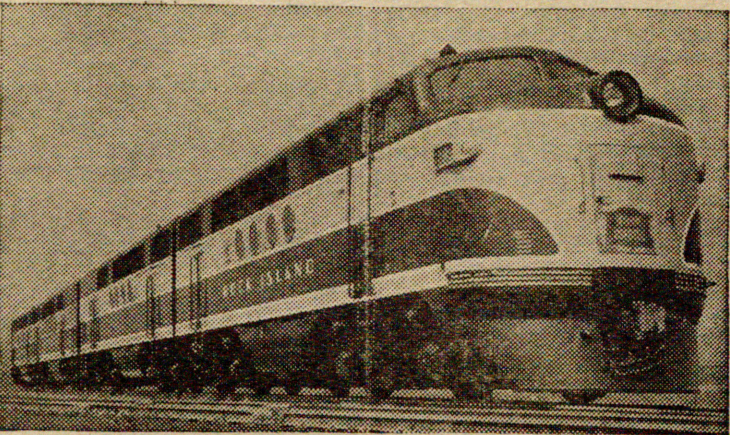

Last week closed contests in the music department between the 3rd and 4th grades, and the 5th and 6th grades. The 3rd and 5th grades were the winners. Parties were held for them during their music period and individual prizes were given out. The 5th grade was entertained by Elizabeth Lumpkin, who played a piano solo, and Harold Ambuehl, who played two very delightful numbers on his piano accordion. These were enjoyed and appreciated by all.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Semmler, and daughter Adeline and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Westlund made a business trip to Des Moines, Ill., Sunday and visited with Editor Fred Fulle in that city. They also spent a few hours with Mr. and Mrs. D. B. McLohon on the return trip.

MOKENA, ILLINOISNEW POWERFUL FREIGHT DIESELS PULL
ROCK ISLAND WAR TIME FREIGHT

This "Hercules of the Rails," the first of nine new Diesel-electric locomotives to be delivered to the Rock Island Lines, is among the largest and most powerful in the world. The 5,400 horsepower giant, with an engineer's cab at each end so that it can be operated in either direction without being turned around, is 190 feet long, and is geared for speeds up to 70 miles an hour. On its first assignment, "Hercules" left Chicago pulling 135 loaded freight cars, a train a mile and one-quarter long, carrying over 4,600 tons of war freight. Three of these locomotives are now in service on the Rock Island System.

The addition of the new freight locomotives is part of the Rock Island's Diesel-electric power program inaugurated in 1937, when the road placed in service the first of its 15 streamlined Diesel-powered passenger trains, the Rockets.

The first of this type of locomotive was built by the Electro-Motive Division of General Motors in 1939, and the following year proved its power, speed, flexibility, availability and economy of operation in an 83,000 mile run over the major railroad systems, including the Rock Island Lines.

One of the first railroads to utilize Diesel-electric power extensively, the Rock Island now has a total of 113 Diesel locomotives, 19 of them operating on passenger runs and the remainder in road freight, and switching and yard service.

Because of the extensive use of the Rock Island's Diesel-powered Rocket trains over the entire 8000-mile system, the road is already well equipped with facilities for fueling and maintaining the new freight locomotives.

The Rock Island established a separate Automotive Equipment maintenance section of the operating department in 1941, and this department is staffed by a group of technicians who have been especially trained in the maintaining of Diesel power.

WE WORK FOR VICTORY TOO!

WE ALWAYS PLAY
WHERE IT'S SAFE

"We Always Play Where It's Safe" is the subject of the May school poster in the series, "We Work for Victory Too," being distributed to more than 38,000 classrooms in Illinois and Indiana by the Chicago Motor Club. The poster strikes directly at one of the major causes of pedestrian fatalities.

Designed to emphasize the contribution children make in working for victory, this poster series has been commended by leading educators throughout the United States. Instruction sheets accompanying the poster enable teachers to use the safety lessons to the best advantage for pupils of all ages in various localities.

Dear Mrs. Kruspe:

It seemed that everytime I saw a Herald it contained some news and a thank you to you for a package. Of course I wondered what it was all about and if I was on your list too. Well today brought the answer in the form of a most welcome package. If that was mailed as a Christmas package it took a long time to get to this Rock in the South Pacific. The main thing is that it is here and despite the uncertainty involved, I appreciate it a lot.

To be sure I could probably express my thanks, I even tried the razor blades and they sure beat those we get out here. That makes me twice as grateful.

In case this should get in print, I'd like to hear from some of my Orland friends, especially those in service. There's more I'd like to say but I'll let it pass for now.

Thanks again,
Yours in service,
F. W. (Bill) Elkin. Casl. 14, care Fleet postmaster, San Francisco, Cal.

Kidneys Must Work Well—

For You To Feel Well

24 hours every day, 7 days every week, never stopping, the kidneys filter waste matter from the blood.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove surplus fluid, excess acids and other waste matter that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole system is upset when kidneys fail to function properly.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warns that something is wrong. You may suffer nagging backache, headaches, dizziness, rheumatic pains, getting up at night, swelling.

Why not try Doan's Pills? You will be using a medicine recommended the country over. Doan's stimulate the function of the kidneys and help them to flush out poisonous waste from the blood. They contain nothing harmful. Get Doan's today. Use with confidence. At all drug stores.

DOAN'S PILLS

UNLESS baseball is further scrambled by various and shifting draft codes and regulations, there will be, in addition to closer races, more than a few warm contests on the individual side.

For example, such stars as Mort Cooper, Spud Chandler, Rip Sewell, Whit Wyatt and several others will have lighter hitting to face on a general average.

In the same way the stronger hitters from the two big leagues will have somewhat softer pitching to swing against, outside of the top men.

So there is a good chance to bring back a 30-game winner on the pitching side and a .400-hitter on the batting side, which should help general interest where the individual plays such an important part as long as he remains around the front of the parade.

Mort Cooper and Spud Chandler, certainly two of the best as long as they remain on the scene, should be headed in the general direction of 30 winning games, for more often than not they will be facing pitchers well below their high levels.

Each league should have enough outstanding pitchers to feature a season, always depending on the sweep of the draft broom which seems to change direction from week to week.

I still think Chandler and Cooper are the two best, and they could be rated with the best in any season. Whit Wyatt belongs with either when he is physically right. Mort Cooper allowed only 1.77 earned runs in 1942 and Spud Chandler allowed only 1.64 of the same last season. This is pitching of a high degree.

The Finest Pitching

There are two men who, since 1912 when such earned run records were listed, head the long list with something to spare.

And both were pretty fair country throwers. The leader is a fellow by the name of Grover Cleveland Alexander. His runner-up was Walter Johnson.

Here is Alexander's record of earned runs—read it—and wonder—

1915—With Philadelphia—1.22.
1916—With Philadelphia—1.55.
1917—With Philadelphia—1.83.
1919—With Chicago (after serving in the army)—1.72.
1920—With Chicago—1.91.

Here is an amazing pitching record which included 16 shutouts in 1916.

In 1913 Walter Johnson with Washington allowed 1.14 earned runs; in 1915, 1.55 earned runs; in 1918, 1.28 earned runs; and in 1919, 1.49 earned runs. Johnson had the best four years—Alexander had the call at five seasons. I doubt very much that two greater pitchers ever threw a ball by hostile bats.

As Johnny Evers told me once—“Alexander was the only pitcher I ever faced who made me want to throw my bat away before I started for the plate.”

Johnson had the blinding, blazing speed—Alexander had the control and the cunning—and both had great hearts. They worked for shutouts.

If averages mean anything, here are your two greatest pitchers.

Before and After a War

There have been arguments back and forth about the comparative value of athletes, whatever the game, before and after a war is over. What about Joe Louis, Joe DiMaggio, Bob Feller, Ted Williams, Sammy Sneed, Ben Hogan, Billy Conn, etc.?

Suppose we look at the case of Grover Cleveland Alexander. Alexander broke in with the Phillies in 1911. He was 31 years old when he was called into army service, where he served abroad in 1918. And Old Pete had his share of rough service. Yet in 1919, after the war, 32 years old, his earned run average was 1.72 and at 33 he pitched 363 innings, a total of more than 40 ball games, with a mark fixed at 1.91.

This is proof enough that those who had it will still have it left upon their return.

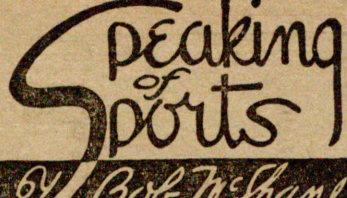

Bob Feller, for example, won't be 26 until next November. Joe DiMaggio will be 30 in November. Ted Williams will be only 26 next October. These, and many other stars with the luck to return, will have many big years left.

Baseball in 1944

In addition to the demands of the draft, the two major leagues have run into the worst training weather of many years.

But as Harry Greb told me once, “I get in shape by fighting.”

My angle is that if football, boxing, basketball, hockey, indoor track and field, bowling—and especially racing, facing a record season—can get along, it would be something of a shock to find that baseball, the so-called National Game—couldn't survive.

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

THE current season's most unpleasant task confronts us, so in deference to tradition this department makes its annual baseball selections. In order to prolong the agony, today's soul-stirring outpouring will be devoted solely to the National league.

And that is as it should be. The job is considerably easier in the senior circuit. The National league contains the only first class club in baseball this season—the St. Louis Cardinals.

All in all, the Western clubs are stronger this year. There is a very good chance that an Eastern team will not be able to break into the first division.

Cardinals Strong

Things wouldn't be so gloomy if the strength in the Western clubs were evenly divided. But the Cardinals are more menacing than they were a year ago. They haven't as strong a club as the 1943 offering, but they haven't been hurt nearly as much as the seven other clubs in the league. Remember that the Cards won by 18 lengths over the Reds, with Brooklyn 23½ games behind and the Pirates 25.

Here is the way this department muddles things up:

St. Louis

Chicago

Cincinnati

Pittsburgh

Brooklyn

New York

Boston

Philadelphia

The Cardinals have suffered but few important losses—Outfielder Harry Walker, who may return with a medical discharge, Second Baseman Lou Klein, Infielder Jimmy Brown and Pitchers Al Brazle, Murry Dickson, Howard Krist and Ernie White.

Manger Billy Southworth still has Pitchers Harry Brecheen, Mort Cooper and Max Lanier. His World Series infield shows only one change.

Emil Verban from Columbus having replaced Klein at second. The outfield presents three veterans—Stan Musial, Johnny Hopp and Danny Litwhiler.

Walker Cooper, one of the best catchers in the game at the beginning of the last season, is available. So are many other stars of the St. Louis cast.

It's customary to pick the Cubs for second place. In fact, one gets in a disagreeable rut by naming the Cubs to place. Last year Mr. Wrigley's hired men wound up an inglorious fifth, 30½ games out. But the present season finds the club fairly well equipped with experienced pitchers. And good pitching can land the club in second place. (Somewhere we've heard that song before.)

We string along with Cincinnati for third place largely because of Manager Bill McKechnie. The Reds have been hard hit in their once-strong department—the pitching staff. They have lost Johnny Vander Meer and Clyde Shoun. They will mourn the loss of Lon Frey at second. Others—including Eddie Miller and Gerald Walker—are susceptible to the draft.

But Master William McKechnie is a sound, resourceful and reliable leader. He has a habit of successful operations. The rejection by the military service of First Baseman Frank McCormick has strengthened the Cincinnati club. McCormick is a long distance hitter who will make quite a difference in the final standings.

The Pirates may prove to be a surprise club. Frank Frisch has a good infield, with Babe Dahlgren replacing Elbie Fletcher at first base, Bob Elliott back at third, and Frank Gustine and Pete Coscarart in between.

The Dodgers' unhappy plight is made all the more evident by the report that Manager Leo Durocher is likely to play.

The Giants are weak. They will do well to end up in sixth place and may be forced to get along without the services of Manager Mel Ott, who is 1-A.

The Braves have a new bankroll to work with. Bob Coleman, the new manager, is widely known as a developer of young players. But the present emphasis isn't on youth in the big leagues.

We will not attempt to discuss the Philadelphia Story other than to remind you that the club is now known as the Blue Jays. Remember that names don't mean a thing.

SPORTS SHORTS

Frank Mancuso, rookie catcher for the St. Louis Browns, was making his fifth parachute jump when he suffered injuries which led to his honorable discharge from the army. Regulations call for five jumps from a plane to qualify as a jumper.

The Jim Corbett-Bob Fitzsimmons match at Carson City, March 17, 1897, was the first fight to be filmed.

Harry Stuhldreher will conduct a clinic for high school football coaches at the University of Wisconsin late in August.

FEDERAL OWNERSHIP
'AFTER THE WAR'

THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT has invested more than 20 billion dollars in war industrial plants which will be useless for the purpose for which they were erected when the war is over. In many cases these plants are but additions to smaller plants that were in existence before the war. In but few cases have the plants been directly operated by the government but have been under private management.

What will happen to this array of industrial productive capacity is one of the subjects covered by the Bernard Baruch report to the President and being considered by congress. A coterie of bureaucratic heads are urging that the government not only retain ownership, but also that the government operate them on peace-time products in competition with private industry.

These plants are distributed among thousands of communities, and each community in which one is located has a direct interest in the problem of its disposal. There is one illustration left over from World War I that can provide a basis for consideration. Hoboken, N. J., is a waterfront town in the New York harbor area. In it were located the docks of the North German Lloyd steamship company, a German owned corporation. The government seized those docks as alien property. That was more than 25 years ago, and the government still holds them as federal property. During those 25 years the little city of Hoboken has not received one cent of tax revenue from them. Based on the rentals of similar docks in Hoboken those owned by the federal government would have earned under private ownership $923,993 during 1943. From that sum Hoboken would have collected $478,245 as taxes. As it was, Hoboken got nothing and the loss had to be made up by other forms of taxes, paid by the people of the town.

Despite lower rental charges, made possible because of no taxes, the government owned and operated piers have not been used to anywhere near capacity. Ship owners object to the theoretical regulations and the bureaucratic red tape they must wade through to use them. It has resulted in a 75 per cent loss in employment on the government owned piers, and an annual loss of some six million dollars in retail trade in the town.

What has happened in Hoboken through 25 years of government ownership and operation can happen in any community in which the government owns a war plant unless that plant passes into the hands of private owners to be privately operated when the war is over.

Mr. Baruch strongly urges the transfer of these plants to private ownership and operation as a necessity in the preservation of our free enterprise system. The problem is actually in the hands of congress and congress will do what the people emphatically demand.

FARMERS AND FERTILIZER VIA C.O.D.

AGRICULTURAL department representatives in California, and possibly in other states, are advising farmers to buy fertilizer and take a receipt for the cost and amount, with a promise that the government will refund the cost in 1945 from the agricultural department appropriation of next year. In California, where citrus and other fruit and vegetable ranches represent small acreage, the promise is to refund the cost of sulphur fertilizer to the extent of one ton per acre up to ten acres. For anything beyond ten acres the refund to be 25 per cent of the cost. It remains to be seen what congress will say about it, and that, of course, depends on who is elected to congress in November. It puts aid to the farmers on a C. O. D. basis.

FREIGHT RATES

THE PRESENT FEDERAL TAX on commodity transportation costs is far from equitable for all sections of the nation. Transportation on a bushel of wheat from Montana to the sea coast is much greater than from states further east. The transportation tax on that bushel of Montana wheat is more than on the wheat grown farther east, and the farmer pays that difference in the price he gets for his wheat. Justus Craemer of the California State Railroad commission proposes a tax on the basis of weight of commodities of different freight classifications. All products of any one classification would pay the same tax regardless of the distance transported. That would be equitable for all.

TO, AT THIS TIME, BUY a new atlas on the presumption the end of the war will not see new national boundaries is presuming more than can be reasonably expected. There will be new boundary lines in Europe, in Asia, Africa and the islands of the seven seas. We are not an imperialistic nation but when it is all over the American flag will replace the banner of the Rising Sun on many a Pacific isle. Some of the small nations will have disappeared from the map of Europe, colonies in Africa will change.

Tales of the Big Town:

Williston Rich of the Time mag factory tried for years to convince his colleagues there that Bob Hope would make an interesting profile . . . But he was always n-h-n'd . . .

So he went on a short holiday, and the bosses suddenly decided that Hope should be given a salute . . . The piece was prepared by the guy pinch-hitting for Mr. Rich . . . So what? . . . So Reader's Digest picked it up and sent the pinch-hitter a check for $1,000!

Some of the men from a redistribution center were entertaining at the Latin Quarter the other mid-night . . . When they finished they tipped the waiters lavishly and called over a bus-boy to hand him a few dollars . . . “Thank you, Lieutenant,” he said, “but I couldn't accept any gratuity. Just waiting on you has been a pleasure. You see, I was wounded in your sector, discharged, and I'm now back helping the war effort by serving you and all other men in the war” . . . Then he opened his white coat and displayed his campaign ribbons . . . The officers stood and saluted the bus-boy. It was all very lumpy-in-the-throat and thrilling.

A group of midtowners were gabbing about charges of “innuendo” over the radio, and a veteran recalled this Jimmy Walker story . . . During his first campaign for Mayor of New York, LaGuardia charged the popular Walker with all sorts of corruption, and Walker never answered . . . “Why should I make his campaign for him?” he said to a pal. “I won't build him up. It would be fun, though, to ask him one question. What was he doing in Waterbury on July 16, 1928?”

“Was LaGuardia there then?” asked the friend.

“I dunno,” replied Walker, “but if I asked that question he could deny it until he was blue in the gills. A lot of suckers would still believe there was something fishy about him and Waterbury!”

Sid Sheldon reports that a company of boys from the Army Signal Corps were sent to the induction station for overseas physicals. One of them (in the army three years) wandered into the wrong line and wound up being examined with selectees. The final doctor told him he was 4-F.

“But,” protested the soldier, “I'm already in the Army!”

“Nonsense,” snapped the medico, “get dressed and go home!”

The poor soldier got back into uniform, returned to camp and said nothing. How do you explain to a Top Sarge that you're 4-F?

Congress refused to put another heavy tax on horse racing. It imposed 30 per cent tax on night clubs where servicemen get real recreation. Racing has a powerful lobby in Washington, and the night club owners (with a 600 million dollar industry) had a very weak lobby.

Some Chicago cafe people, however, sent the members of the Ways and Means Committee (and the Senate Finance Comm.) large posters, which burned the legislators to a crisp because they know they are true. The posters show thousands of people throwing away their money at race tracks. The caption: “No tax here! They had a powerful lobby!”

The opposite side shows men in uniform in night clubs enjoying themselves dancing, etc. The caption: “These boys are giving their blood and had no lobby. They pay 30 per cent extra for their fun!”

That tax is the highest on anything in our history.

The Intelligentsia: Tommy Harmon, the hero, will do a book on his war adventures for Crowell . . . Poet Joseph Auslander's “The Unconquerables” (poetry in epic form) is his best . . . Senator James A. Mead's book, “Tell the Folks Back Home,” will arrive May 8th via Appleton-Century . . . Kyle Crichton of Collier's once wrote “the novel is a dying literary form. Stories are best told via straight reporting or biog” . . . Kyle's first novel, “The Proud People,” is in its 3rd printing . . . Eighty-seven year old S. S. McClure (founder of the old McClure's mag) will receive the Order of Merit plus $1,000 cash prize from the Nat'l Institute of Arts and Letters . . . Stanley Richards' new play script (a cartoon in three acts) is titled: “Marriage Is for Single People” . . . When Billy Rose hears about some heel or no-good he marks the name down on his very long “Drop Dead List.”

After a recent raid in Italy (according to Irv Hoffman) an Army surgeon told the chaplain that one poor fellow was beyond hope. The chaplain leaned over the wounded man and said: “My dear fellow, you are badly hurt. Have you anything to say or any word for your family?”

“My inside coat pocket,” moaned the soldier, painfully.

The chaplain felt the pocket and removed a wallet. “Is this what you want?” he asked . . . “Yes,” whispered the soldier, “I'll bet you THAT that I won't die!” He didn't.

ON THE HOME FRONT

Do YOU have a large wall space somewhere in your house that looks rather bare? Why not fill it with a group of matched brackets on which you may make an attractive arrangement of bric-a-brac and trailing vines?

This sketch shows a set of three brackets in a quaint old-fashioned heart design over a davenport in the living room. The center bracket is fourteen inches wide with one of the matching smaller brackets on each side. The sketch also shows how easy it is to cut out the heart design with a sharp knife after boring holes with a brace and bit. Any school boy who has the use of a coping saw or maybe a jig saw may make these graceful brackets.

NOTE—Mrs. Spears has prepared an actual size pattern for all the pieces of this set of wall brackets, with complete directions for cutting, assembling and finishing. The lines of these brackets are so well proportioned that you will be proud to own them. Ask for Pattern 263 and enclose 15 cents, which covers cost and mailing. Address:

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT

A researcher in things rubber reported that in 1858 the trade in rubber products ran between four and five million dollars annually and the industry employed 10,000 workers. Vulcanization had been known less than 20 years then.

The extra man-hours required in the manufacture of heavy tires for military airplanes, trucks, combat vehicles and for civilian trucks, buses and farm tractors mean that the major share of the tire-building manpower and facilities available must be devoted to this job, in the opinion of John L. Collier, B. F. Goodrich president. These are the essential needs from a current tire standpoint.

FUN FOR EVERYBODY

Palos Reader Objects To Fox Hunts as Cruel Sport

does man, yet no one clubs him to death. The quail has been decimated by man in a few short years while the fox who has been here for thousands of years left an abundance of small game to the intruding white man. Therefore, that accusation is without a basis of fact. Were it not for the balances of nature, we would be over-run with rabbits, mice, rats and other rodents which cause the farmer far greater loss than the fox.

The hunter blazes away at any hawk although all but two species have been proven beneficial to the farmer in destroying rodents. The majority of people will kill any snake on sight although they are big eaters of insects. My garden is over run with snakes, toads, frogs and wild birds of all kinds. I have not in six years of intensive gardening, had to spray or dust a vegetable. Our big trouble here is, rabbits and mice and we pray God to send us a few foxes to rid us of some of the destroying rodents.

Now my dear editor, may I ask that you cease and desist the glorification of these fox-clubbing spectacles and preach the gospel of conservation without which this country looks to a sorry future.

Sincerely yours,

H. B. EBERMAN,
"Westward Ho", Palos Hills.
Editor's note: The story and pictures Mr. Eberman refers to, was published in "Life" magazine, dated March 13, 1944. It depicts acts as shocking as we might expect from Japanese barbarians. The pictures published show 600 men, women and children of Holmes County, Ohio indulging in the 'sport' of a fox roundup, the conclusion of which is the beating to death of the exhausted animals. One picture reveals an 11-year-old child in the act of bringing a club down on the head of a prostrate fox. He is being urged on in his merciless behavior by a grown man wearing the badge of a police officer. Another picture shows a crowd of men and women standing in a circle watching a four year old child belabor a dying fox with a stick. The sadistic expressions on their faces are not pleasant to look upon. Some are taking pictures of the spectacle.

It is unbelievable that such an incident could happen in a community to represent a Christian civilization. Yet, as LIFE observes: "This is a true story. This happens in Holmes County every weekend. Men of Holmes County consider it sport etc. Thank God this is not typical of America. And of the fox hunts held in Mokena and surrounding territory, we would like expressions from the hunters, the citizens of our territory or anyone else with an idea on this subject. There are always two sides to every question."
